

Ziad Moussa

Ziad Moussa is a Senior Research Associate at the Environment and Sustainable Development Unit of the American University of Beirut and an internationally acknowledged evaluation practitioner. He has been President of the International Organization for Cooperation in Evaluation (IOCE) and Chair of EvalPartners.

Ziad has over 20 years of experience in leading complex multi-country evaluations across the Global South in well over 40 countries and with almost every major donor on the circuit. He is credited for the Arabization of the reference book “Outcome Mapping: Building Reflection and Learning into Development Programs” as well as several publications on facilitation, evaluation and communication for development.

His recent work has been focused on evaluation of humanitarian work in conflict settings and resilience programmes in urban settings.

Source: IOCE website, August 2018